Garden of rocks now skirts mural

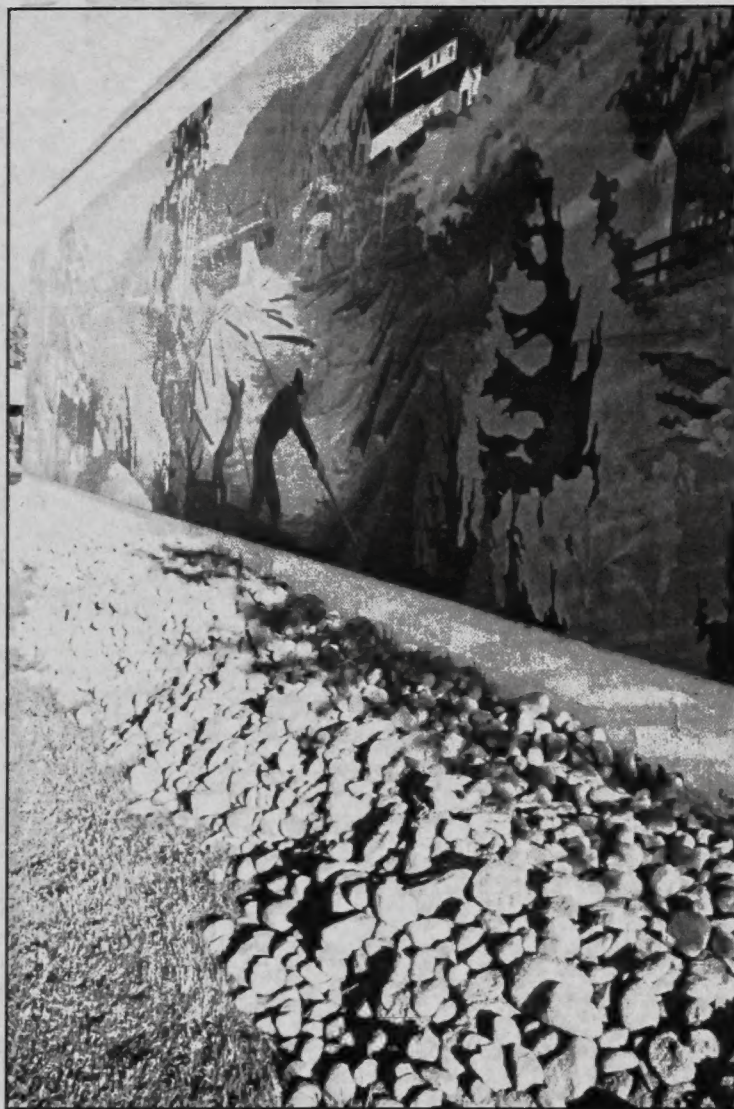

Minden's first mural received a little touch up last week.

Members of the Minden Mural Committee and a group of volunteers laid down an apron of rocks along the base of the mural Monday evening. "It is something we had been planning to do for some time," committee chair Larry Hodgson said. "I suspect more than a few people notice the plastic liner that has been in place there for over a year. Well, things finally came together and we added this extra touch to help set off the mural."

The mural is located on the east wall of The Times building. Painted by John Lennard, the mural includes a number of scenes from the logging days in the Highlands.

Claudio Mestroni, another member of the committee, started the process on Saturday, moving some of the dump truck load of rocks by hand. "I just wanted to see how much time it would take to get the job done," he said. While he managed to get a good start on it, the job went a lot quicker with the help of many willing hands. Monday evening, the remaining rocks were set in place in just over three hours.

The load of rocks was donated by Minden Hills Councillor Ingram Wessell and delivered to the site by Jack Poyner of Jack's Contracting. Helping with the placement of the rocks, in addition to the two committee members were, Madison Hodgson, Jessica Brown, Willow Hopps, Jim McKelvey, Amanda Corby, Dustin Howard and Erica Howe.

Charge laid following sediment release

by Matthew Sitrer

Sediment concentrations in the construction job undertaken at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School has resulted in a charge being laid.

The Larry Hewitt Contracting Company will be charged under the Province's Public Lands Act that could carry a fine of $1,000 or under, said Haliburton MNR Conservation Officer Steve Murray. "The water sample I took from there was very weak in sediment," he added. "However, the company did correct its error by replacing some needed silt cloths, and they did shore up the banks of the main culvert with stone to ensure there was no further erosion."

Car stolen from Kinmount residence

Police are investigating the theft of a vehicle from Kinmount village.

According to the Kawartha Lakes detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, the owner of the vehicle noticed it was missing on the morning of June 4. Stolen was a 1996 green Mustang. The police report that the vehicle was locked and the alarm was set.

The Kawartha Detachment of the OPP is interested in talking to anyone with information about this theft. Call 705-324-6741.

Auctioneer Norm Mills, left, is looking for bids as assistant Tony Aymong holds two groups of mops and brooms during the auction at Dave's on 35 Tuesday. All the equipment and supplies in the building next to the former OPP station were sold and removed from the property. Speculation is growing as to what development might take place on that property.

Shoreline allowance purchases will cost more in Algonquin Highlands

by Jerry Grozelle

Shoreline allowances are no longer the bargain they once were in Algonquin Highlands. As of May 17, the municipality is charging market value for shoreline allowance property that is sold to adjoining property owners.

Algonquin Highlands CAO Gerald Bain noted that a piece of shoreline allowance property which sold for $250 before the new by-law went into effect will now cost $1,200 or more.

At least three property owners who are interested in purchasing their adjoining shoreline allowance have requested to be considered for the pre-increase price. Council debated the subject at length and in the end, decided that in order to qualify, applications had to be approved in principle by council prior to the May 17 by-law change.

Peter and Rita Dadzis have expressed an interest shoreline property. They had made application for one parcel in 2000 and received approval in principle from the council of the day. The processing of the application was put on hold because the Dadzis' planned to purchase some adjacent property and decided to process both shoreline applications when the deal was finalized on the second property. The deal wasn't finalized until recently, so their second application to purchase the shoreline allowance wasn't received until after the May 17 change in policy. Council decided that since the first parcel had been approved in principle by the former council, it would qualify for the old price. But the second parcel had not gone before council to be considered until after the May 17 deadline and therefore will fall under the new price structure.

All three of the property owners who approached council say they had indicated an intention to make application for the purchase of their adjacent shoreline allow-

Speculation grows about Highway 35 developments

Is there a Tim Hortons Donut store in Minden's future?

The possibility was certainly the talk of the community last week, especially following the auction sale Tuesday at the former Dave's on 35 hamburger restaurant. The property has been sold to a Toronto company which operates a number of Wendy's franchises. Auctioneer Norm Mills, at the beginning of the sale on Tuesday, announced "The cheque had been signed by Wendy's."

The Wendy's Restaurants and Tim Hortons Donuts franchises are owned by the same company. The property in question is just north of the former OPP office on the Highway 35 bypass.

The transfer of the property took place on Friday and according to one of the individuals involved, the new owners are approaching a number of franchises about the location. "We are looking at a number of options," Al Marsi said. His brother Mel Marsi was the purchaser of the property.

"We don't want to get everyone's hopes up," he said. "There are no guarantees."

There had been speculation earlier about the possibility of a national food franchise locating somewhere on the Highway 35 bypass, however hopes for that happening faded when plans to locate a Canadian Tire in the municipal commercial park at the corner of Prince Street and Highway 35 fell through last year. That possibility is alive again.

"We have a lot of faith in Minden," Marsi said. "We are very hopeful, but it is the big companies that have to decide." He offered no time line on when a decision might be made on a franchise, noting this is a very busy time of the year for all concerned.

"At the moment there is nothing I can say about it," Marsi commented. "We are looking at many options."

The condition of the auction sale last week included the provision that all goods had to be removed from the property on the day of the sale.

Wind Symphony and Jubilate Singers: a delightful combination

Music lovers enjoyed a double treat Monday, June 4 as members of the Highlands Wind Symphony shared the stage with Jubilate Singers.

The Singers are a new group formed in the Highlands earlier this year. Working under the direction of Lorelyn Morgan, their repertoire include a number of madrigals all sung a capella. While much of their music could be considered "serious" in nature, the group also revealed a whimsical side, including a number of pieces by "PDQ Bach" under such titles as My Bonnie Lass, She Smelleth and The Art of the Ground Round.

In addition to the Jubilate Singers, Vern Kennedy, a Toronto composer who plays trumpet with the Highlands Wind Symphony, conducted his own composition, My Canada My Love. A haunting tribute to our country, the orchestra and the singers combined to provide a stirring rendition of the song, which was also featured as the encore for the evening.

The Highlands Wind Symphony demonstrated its range of talents as well. Under the direction of both Lorrie Reddering and Glen Carter, the group performed themes from Hollywood movies, Broadway show tunes and music composed by Gustav Holst.

CCAC faces tough choices following MoH directive

by Jack Brezina, Editor

There will likely be some troubling news for people who rely on homecare services in Haliburton County and Kawartha Lakes.

The governing board of the Community Care Access Centre (CCAC) serving Haliburton and Kawartha Lakes residents is formulating a response to the provincial government's demand that the organization operate within the budget amount it received last year. Executive director of the CCAC, John Hansen, said it is impossible for the organization to continue to provide the level of service it has since its creation three years ago and stay within the allocation. He noted that last fiscal year (April to March) the CCAC received a "top-up" to its budget, but according to announcements from the Ministry of Health, the organization will be working with the base budget rather than the enhanced amount.

Hansen said the board is currently putting together what he described as a "pro-active" response to the Ministry of Health directives, but said he could not comment on what it may contain.

In other areas, CCAC boards have suggested that there are few options available to deal with the situation. In some communities certain services have been cut, some residents have seen the hours of service they receive reduced while in other areas talks of instituting a means test to identify the patients who will be unable to get help in other ways has been suggested.

CCACs were created three years ago across the province to streamline the delivery of services to the frail and elderly. The intent at the time was reduce the pressure on long-term care facilities and hospital resources. It was suggested that by keeping people in the homes longer, the costs to the health care system could be reduced. It was also recognized that to accomplish this, a system of services needed to be in place to help the frail and elderly remain at home.

The Community Care Access Centres were to serve as the co-ordinating agencies for these services.

While Hansen refused to speculate on how his board is going to deal with latest directive from the Health Ministry, he implied that the decision will not be an easy one and will probably result in cuts to services. The board's plan is expected to be announced in ten days.

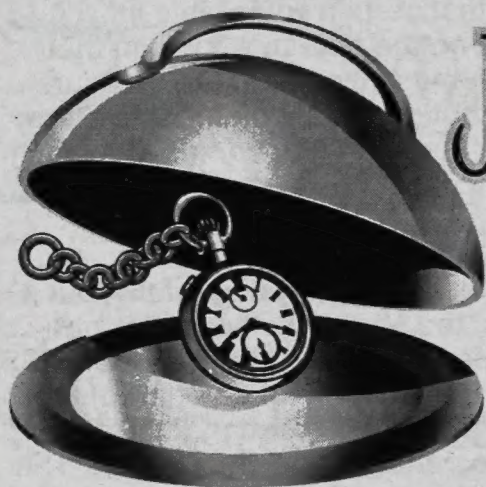

May 17 was cutoff date

ance. But council's guidelines state that the applications must have been before council and received approval in principle.

It had been suggested that the municipality did not announce publicly that the change was coming. Deputy Reeve Don Shortreed pointed out that the upper levels of government don't give notice regarding every change they make. "When the government puts up the tobacco tax, they don't give advance notice," he said.

It was pointed out that the subject of changing the price structure for shoreline allowance purchases was discussed at the previous council meeting.

Delivering affordable health care services

Editorial

It is generally accepted that people who are ill or frail will fare much better in their own home rather than an institution, be that a hospital or a long-term care facility. Certainly, for the most part, their quality of life will be better in familiar surroundings "where they can enjoy the comforts of home". It is also generally accepted that, up to a certain level of care and given certain circumstances, it is less expensive to have those who are ill or frail stay in their own homes, even if it means bringing some of the services, (medical, rehabilitation support), to them rather than relocating them to institutions.

Looking after the elderly and frail of our community in their own homes makes a lot of sense. Certainly, from an individual's point of view, that is the place they most want to be. While there may be some risks involved, providing services which allow individuals to remain at home, should result in an improved quality of life and for the most part a happier and therefore healthier individual.

The Hospital Services Restructuring Commission, which spent a number of years closing institutional beds, mostly in hospitals across the province, relied heavily on the provision of community services to meet the needs of those who would no longer be accommodated in those beds. On numerous occasions the commission justified its decisions by referring to the provision of community services as the most efficient way of meeting the needs of a certain segment of the population. Most observers accepted that the change would work, although a few expressed concerns that support services were not ready for the magnitude of the load they were about to be asked to carry.

Those predictions appear to be coming true as Community Care Access Centres, including our local agency, struggle to meet the requirements of the Ministry of Health to remain within tightly defined budget restraints. The CCAC has not determined how it will meet the government's provisions, but service cuts will likely be part of the solution. This will mean that certain vulnerable individuals will not be able to remain in their homes, thus increasing the pressure on institutions to accommodate them: accommodation that comes at a much higher cost.

We agree that health care expenditures need to be watched carefully, but it seems the Ministry of Health is not taking in the big picture in this latest move. By pinching off one part of the system, it will be creating a larger, more expensive bulge elsewhere. The process appears to be counter-productive.

Thanks for your vigilance

Editor:

I'd really like to congratulate the high school teacher and students who "blew the whistle" on damage being done to the aquatic environment by the culvert replacement at the school. I'm afraid in the absence of the kind of control that used to be practiced by the Province, ordinary citizens are going to have to be much more aware of this kind of thing, and be prepared to act on it.

It's quite a contrast to the kind of protection and habitat creation we had to do when replacing a culvert on the Deep Bay Road a few years ago, where some $30,000 (from memory) had to be spent to meet the requirements of the provincial Ministry of Natural Resources, working (as they did then) for the federal department of Oceans and Fisheries.

I felt very fortunate to be a part of a special occasion on Thursday May 31.

The final Music Night at Archie Stouffer Elementary School was excellent! I was able to see and perform with friends and peers from High School days. The kids who took part in the evening showed their enthusiasm for music as well as their admiration for Mr. Carter.

He is a very special man who has donated many hours to the kids and the community. I feel honoured to be a friend and colleague of his.

So, hats off to you Glen! You have made the last 30 years of our lives very rich. I am sure that you will continue to do so for the next 30!!

Workplace safety: a concern for young people too

--submitted--

The Workplace Safety and Insurance Board (WSIB) wants young people in Ontario to know that they have both rights and responsibilities when it comes to ensuring a safe workplace.

With its new social awareness campaign, the WSIB is hoping young people aged 15 to 24 will make workplace safety an issue that is top of mind as they look for and begin new employment.

On June 11, the WSIB launched a campaign that includes, radio, print, transit and movie theatre advertising.

The campaign materials profile the true stories of young people and their family members who have first-hand experience with a workplace injury. The advertising asks "How Safe is Your Job?" and encourages youth to call a toll-free number or visit a website if they have specific questions or want to obtain more information.

There are some compelling statistics behind the campaign's messages to young people. In 2000, the WSIB registered more than 16,000 claims involving workers aged 15 to 24. In the same year, 16 youths died as a result of workplace injuries.

Ontario's Workplace Safety and Insurance Board plays a key role in the province's occupational health and safety system. The WSIB is committed to the prevention of workplace injury and illness. It also administers the province's no-fault workplace insurance for employers and their workers. As part of this system, the WSIB provides disability benefits, monitors the quality of health care and WSIB assists in the early and safe return to work for workers who are injured on the job or contract an occupational disease.

Reverie on the Rideau

Good old, grey old Ottawa.

Just when you're thinking the time has come to grab the old .303, lead the whole town out behind the barn and put it out of it's misery like a knackered nag, our own Duckburg-on-the-Rideau comes out with something so outlandish you can't help but laugh and let bygones be bygones.

Ottawa is Canada's hands-down hothouse of light entertainment. Just look at the standup comics our Nation's capital has put on stage for us over the years. Mackenzie King. A Prime Minister who conducted seances with his shaving mug and spent his evenings prowling the back streets of Ottawa, muffled in a cloak, endeavouring to 'save' fallen women - no matter what he had to pay.

Think of the magnificent - if unofficial - coat of arms Ottawa has given us. Dexter Supporter: Trudeau swooshing down a royal banister; Sinister Supporter: Joe Clark contemplating an empty luggage carousel; Crest: Stockwell Day rampant on a Seadoo, about to open his mouth and insert a swim flipper.

Ottawa is the only Canadian city with the chutzpah to field not one, but two teams of breathtaking ineptitude and near catatonic inertia - and then to name them as if they were variations on a single theme! I refer of course to the slew-footed Ottawa Senators of the NHL...and the....Senators of Ottawa.

Ah, yes...the Red Chamber - a veritable hive of backroom hacks and bagpersons snoozing off their mortal coils in snug and cozy sinecures. A grateful nation is only too happy to reward these pinstriped mummies with vast ransoms of taxpayer loot, expecting in return nothing more than a heartbeat. Be it ever so faint.

Ottawa is the very crucible of Canadian satire. But last month the town outdid itself. Actually, this particular pratfall goes back a full year and more than $200,000 taxpayer dollars. That's the money and time that the Ottawa Economic Development Corporation spent interviewing more than 150 government, technology and tourism leaders around the world. Purpose: to come up with an official motto for the city. And what do the citizens of Ottawa get for a year's worth of effort and a price tag that reads two hundred large?

They get: OTTAWA. TECHNICALLY BEAUTIFUL And the most common reaction from the Ottawa citizenry since the unveiling of the motto has been: "What the @%&* is that supposed to mean?" Excellent question.

Bob Chiarelli, the mayor of Ottawa, attempted to explain that the new slogan is intended to let the world know how hi-tech and computer savvy

Ottawa is. "This is targeted at the business community", huffed mayor Chiarelli, 'and it was created by the business community'.

A slogan to the mayor and a few assorted Internet geeks perhaps; a lame non sequitur to the rest of the world. And it's not as if Ottawa didn't have other great Canadian slogans to aspire to.

There's the Toronto Maple Leafs motto: DEFEAT DOES NOT REST LIGHTLY ON THESE SHOULDERS
There's the Whitehorse slogan: SOURDOUGH CITY

And then there's my all-time favourite. The motto that graces the "Welcome" sign outside the town of Biggar, Saskatchewan (population: 2, 626): NEW YORK IS BIG, BUT THIS IS BIGGAR!

Ottawa can do better, gosh darn it! And as a public service I'm willing to get this ball rolling with a couple of free-for-the-asking National Capital Mottoes.

How about: OTTAWA - JUST THIS SIDE OF HULL ON EARTH

Or: OTTAWA - WATCH THE SIDEWALKS ROLL UP AS THE SUN GOES DOWN!

Or, in the spirit of patriotic nationhood and to cement the common bond between the city and every working person in the country, how about: OTTAWA: COME VISIT YOUR MONEY!

ASES music teacher retires

Annual concert celebrates 30 years of music

The annual spring music concert at Archie Stouffer Elementary School was more than just an opportunity for the young students to display their talents. This year it was a chance to recognize the contribution of music teacher Glen Carter.

After 30 years as a music teacher in the Highlands, most of that time spent at the Minden school, Glen Carter is retiring.

Archie Stouffer Elementary School principal Rosie Kenney paid tribute to the hard work and dedication of the music teacher. She thanked him for his many years of developing the musical skills of elementary school children. She also told the audience that the instrumental music program would continue at the school with music teacher Lorie Reddering taking over for Carter.

The reward for all those years of effort was evident during the concert. The performances of the grades seven and eight bands were noteworthy, as were the individual and ensemble pieces.

Carter was also joined by a group of former students for a number of selections. Lorie Reddering, Dianne Garbutt, Ian McKenzie and Steve Johnson were members of the Alumni Brass Quintet. There was also a surprise visit by a group of 30 high school students, recent graduates of his music program, who have continued their interest in instrumental music. They played a number of selections, while their former music teacher listened closely to their work.

Following the concert, the music teachers received the thanks of many former students and parents.

The day was perfect, the competition and the blades were keen and the crowd was appreciative. It was Ontario Timbersport Championships 2001, on Saturday, June 9, at the Minden Fairgrounds. More than 70 competitors and 600 spectators enjoyed the day.

There have been an increasing number of black bear encounters in the Haliburton Highlands. The following tips from the Ontario Federation of Naturalists will help to build a better understanding of bear's habitat and habits.

Black bears are:

- intelligent animals with excellent long-term memories;
- omnivores that feed on any remotely edible item;
- inhabitants of most of Ontario's wild lands.

Making a visit to bear country safer for yourself and for bears

Seeing a wild black bear is a memorable event. But, the best sighting, for you and the bear, is a fleeting glimpse. When bears and people meet, problems begin. Over the last 20 years, bears and humans have met face-to-face thousands of times in Ontario. Only three encounters were tragically fatal to humans. Hundreds of bears have been killed because they became a destructive nuisance. You can protect your belongings and Ontario's black bears if you know some basic biology and take precautions in bear country.

Just the bear facts

You are in bear territory in most parts of central and northern Ontario. You are likely to attract bears if you are careless with food and trash

Ursus americanus

Male black bears are much bigger than females. Adult males weigh from 120 to 280 kilograms. In other words, a large male can weigh more than three large men. Adult female bears weigh from 45 to 182 kilograms. Black bears can live for 20 years or more but few do. Many die at the hands of humans — during hunting, vehicle collisions and the killing of "nuisance" or "problem" bears. They may also be killed by other bears or other wildlife (wolves), or die at a young age from abandonment or starvation.

Family ties

Bears invest a lot of time and energy in their young (not unlike humans). Female black bears give birth when they are about 6 to 8 years of age, and then they only reproduce every second year, at best. To a mother bear, each cub counts. One to four cubs are born in late December or early January while the female is in her den. Cubs usually stay with their mother one and a half years. Then female cubs may continue to have access to the mother's feeding territory and the young males disperse, travelling long distances for the next few years.

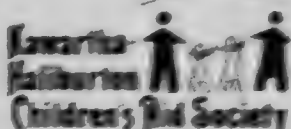

The ultimate omnivore

Bears travel great distances for a meal. This brings them into contact with people, crops, camps and garbage dumps. Black bears constantly search for food to feed young and build fat for their long winter hibernation. Twigs, leaves, shoots, buds, berries, roots, grasses and nuts make up about 75 percent of their diet. They supplement this with insects, fish, carrion and the spring-born young of moose and deer. When bears emerge from their dens in the spring, energy-rich food is scarce. They do not really start gaining weight until the berry-feeding hinges of July and August. Then they fatten up in the fall when they gorge on foods such as beech nuts, acorns and other tree seeds.

Ontario's black bear forest

Bears inhabit forests of the Canadian Shield, the Bruce Peninsula and most of northern Ontario — regions with relatively few humans and a mixture of habitats. They prefer forests with a variety of berry-producing shrubs and trees of different ages. This habitat provides food, winter den sites and refuge. Individuals can range over several townships and counties. Males travel most widely, covering the home ranges of several females and their cubs. Immature males are wanderers that often encounter people when seeking their own new territory.

New show at Agnes Jamieson Gallery

Joy is part of the work

by Matthew Sittler

'Painting for Pleasure', a collection of paintings developed by Bobcaygeon artist Jean P. Pollock, has delighted numerous viewers at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery since it's opening Saturday, May 31. There is still time to view it, as the show continues until June 17.

Describing her work as personal interpretation, Pollock does admit to one underlying cosmic influence. She's a Pisces you see, and that may explain her attraction to water. "My father taught me to paint, and provided me with a great guidance," she said when her show opened. "Having four years in Commercial Art didn't hurt either."

Pollock is a gentle person and that is reflected in her paintings. "They are fairly quiet works that will appeal to most people," she says of her 18 paintings on display.

Contrasting between tight and loose styles of painting, Pollock's watercolours are astounding. Whether it's a floral subject or marshy wetlands and lake scenes, the artist has reserved the best for her Minden audience, a moment that really does hold an insight of a pure, pleasurable experience.

"I have an excellent framer who has added so much to a lot of the paintings," she adds, pointing out the masterful sense of putting a good frame to work by tying its colours to the shades of the paintings. "Lots of artists claim the frame adds nothing, but I don't," she said. "People's eyes tend to be drawn in because of a good mat."

The scenes are all indicative of locations she has personally visited. "I take lots of photos and, of course, some liberties are taken," she concedes. "I like to interpret each scene my way. Sometimes, and it shows in the work, I become four different people. I don't want to necessarily have one style or specific identity to my paintings."

Viewers will recognize the winding backroads scenery of Highway 35 toward Lindsay, and numerous other near and dear locations. Jean Pollock is a graduate of the Commercial Arts Course at Danforth Technical School in Toronto. She is proficient in oils and acrylics and has enjoyed working in watercolour for the past few years. She works from her home studio in Bobcaygeon, Ontario.

The show continues at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery, Main Street north in Minden until June 17. Also on display at the Gallery, Traditional Rug Hooking, a display by the Haliburton Highlands Rug Hooking Group. The gallery is open Tuesday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday noon to 4 p.m.

HHSS students hear about intolerance

Holocaust survivor addresses students

Jennifer Minto— Student Reporter

Marking the 75th presentation since January, thoughts of a horror from the past filled the hearts and minds of HHSS students Tuesday. Holocaust survivor, Eva Olsson, enlightened the young audience as she spoke about Intolerance as well as the horrors she witnessed first hand in Germany during the Second World War.

Eva Olsson is a survivor – of religious persecution during World War II, the Holocaust, the deaths of many of her loved ones, bigotry and racism, and being expelled because of her determination to live life on her own terms.

In contrast, she has now dedicated her life to spreading a message of joy, hope and tolerance. She believes that the recent events in Kosovo, Rwanda, Bosnia and the Middle East prove there is a dire need for this message to be repeated.

For 50 years she remained silent, not sharing her tragic experiences with anyone, including her own son. Not until the day when her 7-year-old grandson confronted her, wondering how her mother had died, was she able to begin Unlocking the Doors. This is the title of her book in which she discusses her struggle against intolerance.

In 1924, Eva was born into a poor family of Hasidic Jews in Szatmar, Hungary. Following the beliefs of the Hasidic religion, her parents did not allow her or her sisters to attend public schools and tried to limit their social contact to the world. This soon changed when the outbreak of World War II plunged Eva into the heart of the Holocaust. Concentration camps, slave labour factories, disease and the death of millions of innocent people, including most of her family were part of her daily experience.

As she told the HHSS students, tolerance should be a key aspect in their daily lives.

Her crusade, in which she has addressed students and interested groups, has also created new-found self-confidence.

Students were invited to write to her with their feelings about her presentation and the Holocaust, as she greatly appreciates their thoughts and wants to stay in touch with those whose lives, she hopes, she has touched.

Deconstructionists at work

The demolition of the Gull River Highway 35 bridge began in earnest last week. Sections of the bridge deck, which had been cut away, were lifted and removed. Eventually the bridge will be dismantled completely, including the steel frame and a new, four lane bridge will be installed. In the meantime, traffic is being diverted to a temporary crossing adjacent to the old structure.

Trillium Lakelands School Board adopts code of conduct

-submitted-

Trustees of the Trillium Lakelands District School Board have approved a wide-ranging code of conduct governing student behaviour. The new code of conduct policy, which was adopted at the latest board meeting in Bracebridge, sets out guidelines for everything from the length of suspensions to acceptable dress by students.

"With this document we now have a standard set of rules across the board," says Dr. Andy Scott, the superintendent who spearheaded the code's creation. "Students, teachers, parents and administrators know exactly what's expected, and what the consequences are when those expectations aren't met."

The code of conduct incorporates new provincial directives on issues such as mandatory expulsions, the new right of teachers to suspend students, a protocol for the involvement of police and a process for establishing school dress codes.

Committees made up of board staff, principals, trustees and students created the new code of conduct through an extensive process of consultation and discussion. The code, which is contained in a 52 page document, comes into effect on September 1.

Pilots share the joy of flying with youngsters

by Matthew Sittler

The sky was the limit for the Haliburton Highlands youngsters who took part in the annual Young Eagles Program at the Stanhope Airport.

A record number of youngsters, 95, participated in the familiarization program Saturday, June 2. Ten pilots took the youngsters soaring into the wild blue yonder while another 11 on the ground gave the young people a tour of the aircraft and talked about the basics of flying.

The flights took the youths from the Stanhope Airport, over Carnarvon, to Minden then on to Haliburton village and Eagle Lake before returning to the airport. The flights lasted half an hour and were patterned in such a way that the youngsters saw their school and/or house.

The Young Eagles Program was launched in July 1982. Since then, more than 675,000 young people have enjoyed an airplane ride through the program. 675,000 Young Eagles represents approximately 135 young people flown for each public use airport in North America.

More than 28,000 EAA (Experimental Aircraft Association) members have volunteered their time and aircraft to participate as Young Eagle flight Leaders. The average number of Young Eagles flown per pilot is 23. Individual numbers range from 1 to more than 2,100. On average, 285 Young Eagles are added to the world's largest logbook every day of the year including the 95 who flew out of the Stanhope Airport this year. (<http://www.eaa.org/youth/youngeagles.html>)

Flight Leader experience levels range from private pilots to Airline Transport Pilots (ATP). Young Eagle flights have taken place in nearly every type of aircraft including standard factory-built airplanes, antiques, classics, war-birds, aerobatic, jets, helicopters, balloons and gliders.

Airports utilized for the Young Eagles Program range from private grass strips to major metropolitan airports. An estimated 293,478 Young Eagle Flights have taken place. On average there are 2.3 Young Eagles per flight.

According to one of the organizers, Barry Hart, there was some concern ahead of the weekend that the weather would not be co-operative. "However, Saturday was great," he commented. "It was overcast, but the clouds were at 3000 feet and our flights take place at 2500 feet. The weather was cool and calm all day and the visibility was great." Hart said the weather was the best they have seen in years for the event.

For the 95 youngsters it was a special day as the program exposed many potential pilots to the wonder of flight.

Devin and Ryan Hogg received a familiarization tour of an airplane prior to taking off on their Young Eagles flight June 2 at the Stanhope Airport. Frank Poulton, right, was one of many pilots to donate their time and aircraft for the annual program. Pilots around the world are involved in introducing young people to flying in light aircraft.

Remember all those piggy-back rides?

Come here for great Father's Day gift ideas.

Water levels continue to rise: TSW report

The lake levels in the Kawarthas have returned to their average following an increase during the rainy period last two weeks. Total water storage in the lakes is currently very close to the 85 year average of 104% of the full level. The flow in the Ontonabee River was doubled last week to reduce lake surplus, but has since returned to a normal rate for this time of year.

In Haliburton, the lake levels are 93.4% full and total storage has continued to increase over the past week. No water has been sent from the reservoirs since early May, and it is anticipated that water will not be drawn for navigational purposes until midway through June, as usual. The flow on the Gull River continues to be below normal, but will be increased once water is sent from the reservoirs. The Burnt River is flowing very close to the average for the period.

Report prepared by the Trent Severn Waterway (Parks Canada) June 4.

Flowerbeds starting to bloom

What a wonderful day today. The sun is shining (for the second day in a row) and a promise of warmer days ahead.

There has been a hive of activity outside lately with the planting of perennials. Linda had a great crew helping with the planting. Margaret Foote, Margaret Feero and Roy Nicholls were there along with Wendy Bartlett, who was good enough to volunteer her time, as well as our PSW students Kathy and Jill. Muriel Welch, Mildred Gartshore, Ernie Hamilton and Mary Appleby were the supervisors. It is lovely to see the flowerbeds being filled. We know it takes time to get a new landscape prettied up and we appreciate all who have contributed in making our home look so nice.

Our thanks to last week's hosts of our Tea Party. The Minden Bible Church ladies were on hand with a variety of treats. Reporter Roy Nicholls especially liked the date squares. We do enjoy these get togethers, such a good time to sit and chat.

We were saddened by the death of Edna McElwain on Thursday, May 31. Edna will be sorely missed especially at any activity involving music. She loved to play the spoons and really got into the swing of things. Our sympathy to her family and friends. A memorial was held for Edna during our Tuesday Chapel Service. We were joined by Rev. Wicks and many came to remember her.

Our Diners' Club meeting was held and we enjoyed picking out the meal for the month. We have had some lovely meals because of these meetings, it has been fun being involved and choosing a special menu.

We were pleased to see Rev. Burgess in for his regular visitations and many of us joined Rev. Everall for our Sunday Chapel Service. Our appreciation goes out to these gentlemen who give of their valuable time.

We had some great activities over these past few days. Horseracing is becoming quite popular here with Lillian Millar, Marjorie Watt and Vera Stevens being our big winners this time. However they missed saying "They're Off!" The next game we'll be playing is shuffleboard and are looking forward to that. We had fashion trivia, which was fun and one afternoon we even made ladybugs out of rocks. You should see these creatures, they're great with some on our balconies and others being used as door stoppers they are everywhere. And who are the creators of these creatures you ask? Margaret Foote, Bill Redgrave, Winnie Barnum, Harold Orsborn, Loretta Nesbitt, Ruth Fiddler, Vera Stevens, Lilian Harrison, Ruby Williams, Lillian Millar. We hope we remembered everyone, you know what our memories are like. Everyone is to be congratulated, good work all, we love them.

An activity had to be cancelled due to the rain at the beginning of the week, we had been looking forward to a luncheon outside, but the weather was not co-operative. That's OK we rescheduled. As for our craft group, the members are designing placemats for Canada Day (July 1st) holiday.

Our card sharks are back with Thelda Weston and Bill Redgrave winning two games to one against Marjorie Watt and Harold Orsborn. In another session, Lillian Millar and Margaret Bessie were the winners beating Roy Nicholls and Corinne, two games to one. We know there will be a rematch and we'll keep you informed, next week.

We must mention our music makers who we've enjoyed this week. Earl Cooper and Les Schell entertained us at Happy Hour. They were great, however we did miss Cathleen Owens. We hope she can join us next time. The Norland Hillbillies delighted us with their music at Pub Night. And last but not least, Jack and Ruth Worthington provided us with a great singsong. We sang an early "Happy Birthday" to Edith Russell who celebrates 100 years on June 21.

Speaking of Edith Russell, there is going to be an open house at our home on Sunday June 24 to celebrate Edith's 100th birthday. All are welcome so it will be a good time for her friends and neighbours to join her family in celebrating this special birthday. Mark it on your calendars and we will see you there.

A special day has been set aside for another lady. Winnie Barnum just had her 91st birthday and on Sunday June 9th a birthday party was planned. We're sorry we didn't have these details in time for last week's column. However many of you will have popped in to wish her happy birthday. You should have seen her the other day, wheeling around with a huge balloon on the back of her chair, she looked great! While still on birthdays we have one more in June. Hilda Gillespie celebrates her birthday June 21st. Happy Birthday ladies we hope you enjoy your special day.

Before we sign off, we wish to send our condolences to Earl Cooper who recently lost his brother, Sid Cooper. We're sorry for your loss.

We must include this in time for Father's Day, it was in our June newsletter.

Dad

*God took the strength of a mountain,
The majesty of a tree,
The warmth of a summer sun,
The calm of a quiet sea,
The generous soul of nature,
The comforting arm of night,
The wisdom of the ages,
The power of the eagle's flight,
The joy of a morning in spring,
The faith of a mustard seed,
The patience of eternity,
The depth of a family need,
Then God combined these qualities,
When there was nothing more to add,
He knew His masterpiece was complete,
And so, He called it ... Dad*

I have heard from yet another person who feels positive change is in the air. Last year, when returning to the area after a winter away, she felt this change and this year she sees it. She was describing my feelings exactly. Hard to put your finger on what it is. It isn't just the new highway under construction, although that is part of it. (Have you been out on 35 lately and experienced how that work is coming along? It certainly proves it is necessary to break eggs before you can make an omelette!!)

It isn't just the 'sold' signs on many more properties. It isn't just the beautiful plantings around town and the pride of ownership of our town, and our sense of belonging to our community or the almost up and running Minden Heritage tour (watch for the plaques!!). I am sure it is a part of all of those things and more but also that added mysterious element which creates this mood of positive change!! It always feels good to have affirmations of one's thoughts and feelings so that you no longer feel alone in your optimism. Change is slow. It is necessary to keep the faith!! Don't we learn that as life moves along!!

I was away for part of the week to attend my eldest daughter's graduation. She received her M.A. in Journalism at Western. Again a Mother's swelling with pride moment!! Some of her graduating peers asked what I did and I proudly said I was in journalism too. When they asked what paper I was with I proudly said the Minden Times!! I haven't been thinking of myself as a journalist, so it was great to acknowledge it with this highly educated bunch!! The graduates will be going into print, radio and television and I am sure we will be hearing about a great many of them in the years to come, maybe including my daughter!!

As an aside, the guest speaker and recipient of a Doctor's Degree was Dr. Cardinal, a distinguished architect who, among many other things, designed the Museum of Civilization in Ottawa. He gave a very inspiring speech about, creativity, powerful reasons for overcoming our fears, dealing with our fears of our inevitable death and for living as fully and creatively as possible in the time we have. Powerful stuff from a powerful man!!

There will a 'Trunk Sale' at the Minden Legion, sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary, on Saturday, June 16 starting at 8:00 a.m. If you want to rent a space for your 'trunk' it will cost $10. All your sales go to you. For all of you attending through the day, please be careful entering the parking lot due to the road construction.

A reminder of the Pork Loin Supper at the Lochlin United Church (off County Road 1 on the Church Road in Lochlin), on Saturday, June 16, with three sittings at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. Adults are $10; children under 4, $4; and preschoolers are free. Please call 286-1765 for tickets.

There will be a Church Yard Sale at the Kinmount United Church on Friday, June 22 from 3-7 p.m., and on Saturday, June 23 from 9-4 p.m. It will be held at the Kinmount Fairgrounds Arena. Sounds like a good place to find exciting bargains!!

Frank and Helen Gray, 50 year residents of Mountain Lake, are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary on June 28. Congratulations!!

Make every day count!!
